

THE PERFECT STORM

FQHCs and Value-Based Care Strategies

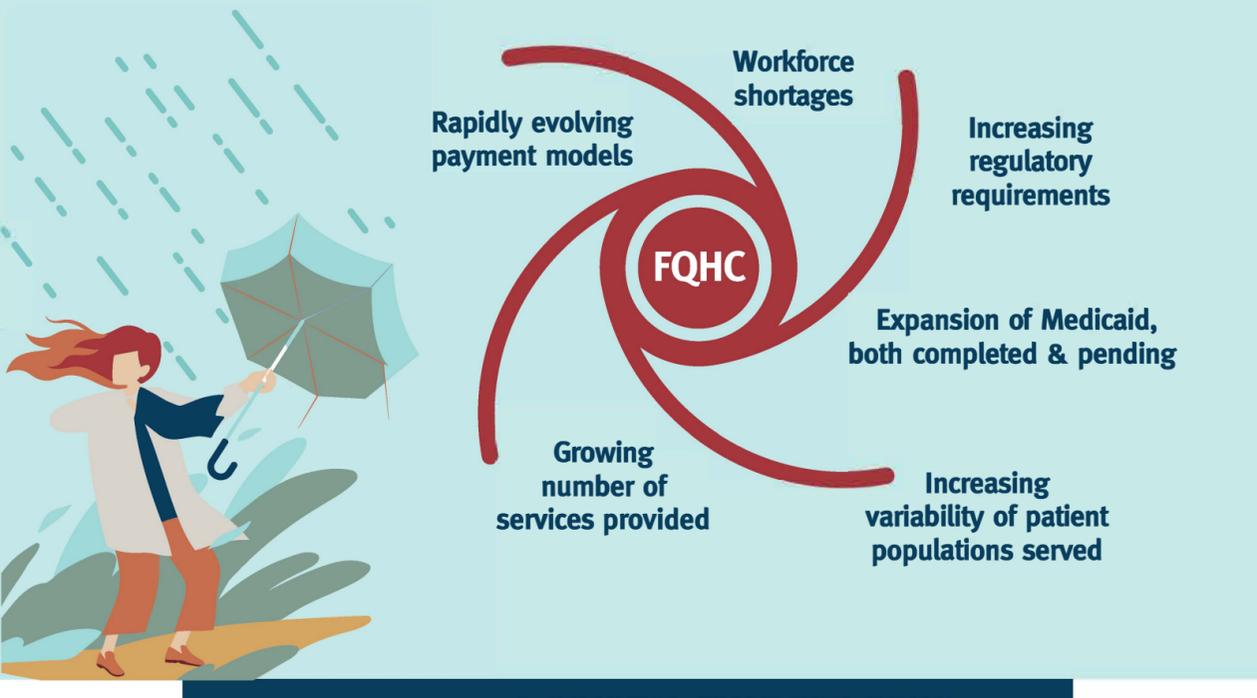

Porter Research surveyed more than 50 clinical, operational, and financial leaders from mid-to-large FQHCs across the country.

THE GOAL:

To better understand their challenges and current thinking when it comes to trends associated with value-based care payment models.

THE PRESSURE IS MOUNTING FROM ALL SIDES

2022-2023 = A PIVOTAL TIME FOR FQHCs

FQHCs currently have or plan to implement value-based care models

FQHCs lack confidence in their value-based care strategies

WHO DO FQHCs TURN TO?

Hospitals

83% of FQHCs are fiercely committed to retaining their independence from hospitals as they struggle to implement value-based care and risk-sharing models

EHR Partner

Vast majority agree their EHR vendor will play an even more important role, but those systems should be able to share data and enable FQHC-specific workflows

Each Other

72% say they are working with like-minded organizations, including other FQHCs

“It’s essential that FQHCs work together more closely. With greater collaboration, we can better inform each other of best practices and approaches to important initiatives like social determinants of health, adverse childhood experiences, chronic condition management, and expanding care service lines.”

— Doug Smith, Executive Vice President, Presbyterian Medical Services

THE VISION: COMING TOGETHER For Highly Informed, Data-Driven Decisions

Real-time data sharing with other FQHCs on same platform

Collaboration on whole-person care plans & best practices

Equipping clinical teams with FQHC-specific workflows

Streamlining quality management and reporting
